

Delivering the same kick from any crossing geometry costs 24× more energy than co-orbital — independent of the angle

